

A Brighter Tomorrow

From Principal's Desk

Greetings

Dear Parents, I write this with joy and satisfaction, as we successfully march to the end of first term of the academic year 2017-18. It turned out to be a great start, flooded with activities. I'm happy that we closed the term with our favourite event, the KG Project Day.

It indeed was a colorful event. The tiny tots did not fail to captivate the hearts of the audience through their cute and flawless performance. Every child is born with intelligence and when its nurtured and taken care of it in the right time, even the sky isn't the limit. Our tiny tots possess loads of talents in them and our teachers constantly do a fine work in identifying the skills of every child, setting the stage for them to perform different events like reciting rhymes, singing, dancing and enacting various roles through skit. It was a bliss to watch the colorful display of the young artists.

Though we cherish the lighter moments, challenges are very much part of the big picture, without which our victory becomes meaningless. As a responsible teacher and a guiding Principal, I feel the stress and pressure the tenth graders face due to the upcoming board exams. The stress extend its arms to the parents as well. I believe, behind every successful student stands a strong and supportive parent. This intuition of mine, led me to conduct a workshop to guide parents on how to handle children who are stressed, how to serve as a moral support and most of all believe in them to win over the challenge with ease. The workshop was a sandwich program consisting three sessions "Stress relief through art" by Mr. Jacob, Art Teacher, Primrose Schools, "The board exam year de-stressed" by Mrs. Arundhati, Head of ParentCircle and "Bonding with the child through sports" conducted by Mr. Gokul Nath, Head of Physical Education Department Primrose School; served as an ultimate stress buster. The workshop added value in bringing parents and children together, bridging the gap brought by the exams.

I hope and believe these little efforts will bring in a lot of positive impact in a child's life who longs to have someone to shoulder the ups and downs of life. Wishing my children all the very best for your future endeavors.

Regards
Principal
