Do not promise - Act.
Do not dream - Realize”.*

--The Mother

Welcome to the March issue of Prim Ad Infinitum! The culmination of the academic year left no stones unturned. Nevertheless, the month of March brought to light a social cause, Primathon, the most cherishing moment - Farewell for Class XII and X, an entertaining and a thought provoking display of ISA projects. Hope you enjoy walking through the events of this issue and we will see you soon.

With Love and Hope, Editorial Team

FROM PRINCIPAL'S DESK

Warm greetings dear parents

As we marched into the month of March, we began with an action packed Primathon. The very word Primathon brings in a high spirit within me. The thought was conceived with an intention to bring awareness among our children on the hardships, sacrifices and achievements of the women. Though the word women equality might sound unusual in the present trend, I feel its my duty to educate my children that not all the girls get the privilege of being educated. Not all the woman are encouraged to pursue their passion. Woman are confined within the walls of the kitchen in many part of the globe. Not only education but even the minimal rights have become a dream for many girl children. Primathon was a small initiative taken by us to stand by the women. I believe this effort to would once become an ocean and serve as a light to the women tribe. Primathon, of course was a successful event which received an overwhelming support from the society and I am happy that Primrose has marked beginning of the change.

March also reminded me that we have marched miles ahead, when the Farewell of my very first batch knocked my door. Yes, it was a goosebumps moment for me. The days I saw them as little kids, naughtiness gleaming in their eyes are still lingering in my mind. Children kept the air always filled with excitement and energy. Days flew past faster and its time for me to let my children explore the real world outside waiting to fill their platter with challenges and opportunities. I am sure all my children are well equipped to take up everything that comes on their way with confidence and without any doubt they will reach greater heights in their life.

Amidst of all these emotional moments, the students of Classes IX to XII came up with their amazing ISA project display. The ISA project dealt with "Water the matrix of life and Ethnic fashion". We human beings are well aware that we are walking away from nature, keeping us safe under the mask of technology. Its high time we realize and wake up to preserve this paradise for our future generation. The project dealt with solutions to save water, children designed various costumes using natural material which are safe for the nature as well as the human.

March has made us walk an extra mile in sowing the right seed in our children. Wishing courage to my children to stand up for their women in life.

PRIMATHON 2K18

Let's run for her
They said with glee
It was Primathon time
A pleasure to see
So many take part
Some young, some old
All gathered together
For a cause as gold
They were all present
To make a big change
In the narrow-minded customs
At a widened range
A spark of hope
They lit in the heart
Of women who yearned
For worth of their part

To be recognized
As equal to men
If not higher than them
As poets did pen
A stupendous sight
Was the morning that day
On the road by the coast
For crusaders to play
Their role of awakening
The sleeping souls
That refused to accept
Her enormous roles
In making the world
A much better place
In her own great style
In her own sweet ways.

"Being Responsible" our teachers and other staff went beyond their call of duty and did justice to this social event.

Primathon 2K18

In the days leading up to the marathon, tension gripped me like brittle stone. Sure I was excited, but after days of persistent promotion by zooming around schools, colleges, shops and beaches in the city, I was anxious how many people would actually show up on the day of the event. My anxiety fizzled like smoke once I arrived; hundreds of people were present much before the run actually started.

I could see that many people had been inspired by our school's initiative to appreciate. On top of that, it was incredible to see energy and excitement in the early morning air of a Sunday! On-the-spot registrations amounted to over a 100 of the grand total. Music was in the air and the volunteers were up running with the bibs and arrangement of stage performances.

Stage performances, every single one was truly breath-taking in its own way. There was not a shimmer of tiredness on the children who owned the stage with their skits, dances and speeches. All this vibrant activity set the stage for a remarkable run. Organizing the run for three different distances were done to pinpoint perfection.

Most of the participants were clear about the distance they were required to run with enough support of the volunteers. A team of trained medics were on standby in case of any emergency. A volunteer on a cycle (me!) was asked to cover the distance to help anyone in case of emergencies and to anyone who feels tired. Teachers stood at checkpoints to provide people with refreshments. All in all, all the volunteers had some satisfying job to do!

As people crossed the finished line, they were handed a certificate and medal. A sumptuous breakfast was also in store for them. Even after the event, the higher classes performed dances on the stage and the stage was open to anyone who had the wish to freestyle. Perhaps the highlight of the event was a mini dance performance and speech by an 80 year old man- a participant. You read that correct! Conversation, dance and food filled the time after the run. The teachers even went an extra mile of doing a post-run and collecting all the litter. They clearly went beyond their call of duty and did justice to this social event. To conclude it was a phenomenal success and I, along with many others, can't wait for Primathon 2K19.

FIELD TRIP

MOOSAA LAND

Children of Prekg were taken to the field trip to the place called MOOSAA LAND. It is a toddler theme park. Children had an opportunity to play in the modular kitchen, garage, vegetable shop, living room etc. Children also learnt the names of things which are used in the kitchen, garage, vegetable shop and there are numerous adventure tasks such as climbing and sliding that are loved by the little ones. Moosaa land Entertainment focuses on developing a child's physical, emotional, and social skills in an interactive and entertaining environment. It was a fun filled and joyful experience for the children.

I was excited to see young and energetic kids spend their day with loads of fun, physical games and more laughter in Moosaa land.
