A PRIMROSE SCHOOLS EDITION

"The peeling an orange activity" is aided to develop fine motor skills of the LKG students. It improves the focus and fortifies the finger muscles. Our children felt the excitement of education.

After dipping their palms in the hues, the LKG students impressions were recorded on chart paper. Fine motor skills are developed by this practice. Youngsters can interact and experiment with the hues. Additionally, it aids in the children's colour identification.

Using your imagination to create art and crafts is fascinating and enjoyable. Our kindergarteners in class LKG had fun creating dog faces. Painting and drawing are not the only aspects of arts and crafts. In order to produce something similar, they also involve learning how to use tools, how to follow directions, and how to collaborate with others.

"Plant more trees and make this planet a better place to live for a better tomorrow."

In addition to teaching kids to be morally and responsibly behaved, Primrose Schools places a strong emphasis on their intellectual growth. The value of preserving the environment is emphasized in school. For class UKG, a seed germination exercise was held to plant the seeds of love for nature.

BEAN PLANT

SPROUT

SPONGE GOURD

A link to nature is forged when kindergarteners plant seedlings. Children learn to respect and value plants and the environment when they participate in the process of sowing seeds. When they saw the plants grow, our UKG class youngsters were blown away.
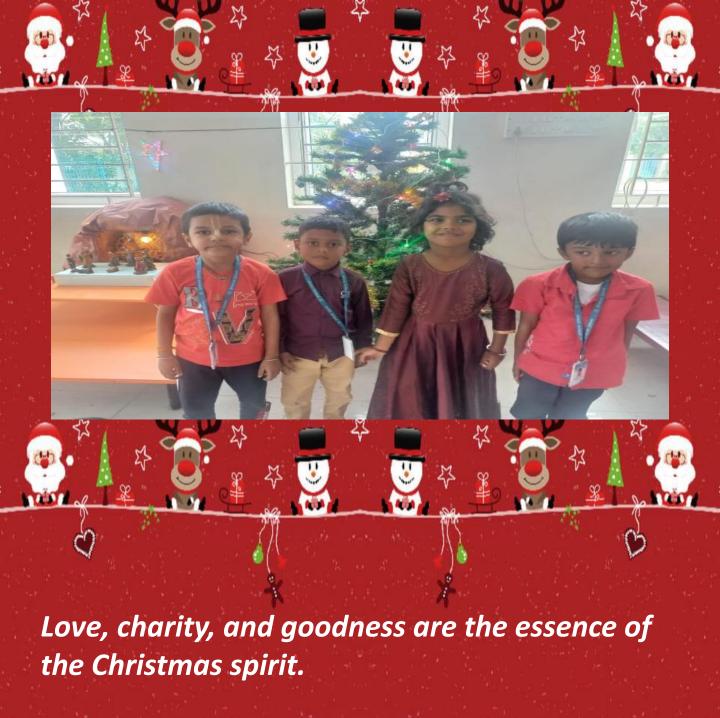

CLASS UKG – CREATIVE LEARNING

In kindergarten, creative learning activities foster talents beyond standard academics and lay the foundation for a child's overall development. Our UKG class members were invited to take part in one of these imaginative learning activities.

We celebrated Christmas with the same zeal, teaching our kids to love and joy. Christmas offers pleasure and affection. To happy music, our kindergarteners danced.

Love, charity, and goodness are the essence of the Christmas spirit.

Memory and focus are enhanced when crafting. It promotes fun and camaraderie. It fosters visual processing abilities and boosts self-esteem. Our tiny LKG buds treasured the wonderful times spent participating in Christmas craft projects.
